ST. MARY'S MESSENGER

This colorfully illustrated 32-page quarterly magazine is a gift that youngsters will look forward to receiving.

Founder and senior editor Kris Weipert credits the inspiration to start the publication as the fruit of praying a novena to St. Thérèse, the Little Flower. "The focus is on everything and anything that is of God, about God, for God and glori-

First God or Jesus or the Blessed Mother," notes Weipert. And practical faith lessons are imparted. "Children want to hear how the Catechism

And practical faith lessons are imparted. "Children want to hear how the Catechism applies to their daily life as a 7- to 12-year-old and how it fits into what is important to them," she says. "So this magazine has things that are entertaining and fun, but all tied together with their faith to reinforce and attract children to what they're learning in religious education. They need something they can have just for fun that reinforces that." Weipert knows what appeals to children because she and her husband, Gary, are the parents of five girls and four boys, whom they home school.

The publication follows the classic-education model to teach arts, history and science and how they are intertwined with the faith. The magazine also integrates feast days and liturgical seasons. Current faith topics are also featured, such as the miraculous healing of Jake Finkbonner in Washington state, which was the miracle that made Kateri Tekakwitha a saint. Another recent story was about Chicago's Floating Balloon Rosary.

Every colorful issue contains various fun faith activities and a classic work of literature, plus an original story. All stories somehow relate to the faith, such as highlighting a virtue.

A gift subscription is an ideal Christmas surprise for children ages 7 to 12. For subscription information, see StMarysMessenger.com. $19.95 for a single subscription. Orders in bulk of five or more for schools, parishes and home-schooling groups are half-price.

Join Us in Fighting the Secular Media Bias!

The mainstream media continues to relentlessly distort the Church's teachings and the Pope's words. The secular media eagerly reports that Pope Francis is softening – sometimes going as far as completely changing – Church doctrine. Deceptive headlines, quotes taken out of context, and uninformed journalists have become the norm when mainstream media reports on the Catholic Church today.

The Church needs more support than ever, and it's important that we as Catholics remain informed. Help the Register mitigate our significant financial shortfall, and continue providing millions in our audience with quality Catholic journalism, by joining our monthly giving program. And, help us reach out to others who have never heard of the Register!
